

Side #5

Malloy, Winston/Victoria

Malloy: You think you're pretty smart, don't you?

Winston: I don't think so. I objectively know that I am. My profession consistently tests my intellect and I rise to the occasion. I also have an excellent memory and an inane ability to remember specific facts. For example: the first person to reject an Oscar win was Dudley Nichols in 1935. Neptune's moon Triton is the only moon in our solar system to orbit in the opposite direction of its planet rotation. The continent of Australia moves two point seven inches a year.

Malloy: Fascinating. Can we talk about the murder?

Winston: I am also smart enough to know that I should not be having this conversation without my lawyer present.
